Australian Wildlife Society Establishes a New National Education Centre Office

The President of the Australian Wildlife Society, Mr Stephen Grabowski JP, announced today that he was delighted to advise our members that the Society had now secured a new permanent national Education Centre Office for the Society in Queen Street Campbelltown, New South Wales.

He said, "After some 115 years, the Society now has a new permanent home from which to operate and promote wildlife conservation and environmental education programs across Australia."

Stephen said he was pleased that the new office was in the Macarthur region of Western Sydney, as it is a dynamic and growing area of influence for today's generation of conservation-minded people.

"We want to engage with all like-minded wildlife conservation groups to form new alliances to save our native wildlife for the next generation of young Australians", he said.

The New National Education Centre Office will officially open on Tuesday, 20 August 2024.

Australian Wildlife Society, formed in 1909, is a national not-for-profit wildlife conservation organisation. Its mission is to conserve Australia's Wildlife (flora and fauna) through national environmental education, public awareness, advocacy, and community involvement.
